HOW WILSON WON BATT

Its Sensational Attack on Pluton and Tammany, and Stanchied Bitter Reply—How Champ Clark Forced Failed to Prevent the Nomination of the Governor of New Jersey—Delegates Weary Exasperated by the Week-Long Contest.

FOR PRESIDENT.
WOODROW WILSON

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.
THOMAS R. MARSHALL

By W. A. PATTERSON.

Convention Hall, Baltimore, is an individual without an admittance ticket will tell you he would not be had a ticket, "as all national conventions are alike."

It has been my privilege to attend few national conventions, including recent Republican gatherings in Chicago, and the meeting of the Democrats at Baltimore, and I can assure you the convention held which nominated Woodrow Wilson as president, and Thomas R. Marshall as vice-president, was different. Writers, like delegates, recollections, and writers, like delegations, may not safely disregard these recollections. I am going to try not to disregard mine, which were to effect that I write, not a political "history" filled with opinions against principles or factions of individuals, but a "human interest story" that side of the big meeting of Democrats which the "people at home" would have seen had they been admitted to attend, without regard to the faults or virtues of the contentions, or the right or wrong of different factions.

The Baltimore convention was of those great gatherings which may witness but once in a lifetime; all the kind of a political gathering whose like has never before been witnessed in this or any other country.

It was a battle of political titans—men—William Jennings Bryan three times the standard-bearer of the party, and Charles F. Murphy, recognized leader of Tammany, the most remarkable political organization this country has ever seen.

sooner had Cardinal Gibbons put on the rich robes of his church, pronounced the final words of the invocation on Thanksgiving Day, the battle was on. Bryan's nomination of Saturday, the temporary chairman, prior to Judge Parker's speech of the national committee, was a faint. When Mr. Kern, the speaker's platform, pleaded for democratic harmony, and proposed to Judge Parker that they both retire in favor of any one of half a dozen men whom he named, Mr. Bryan scored a decisive victory. He had the opposition in his favor for a time at least. When Judge Parker declined to endorse Senator Kern's proposal, the senator retired and named

Him A Home-Coming Reception At Lincoln.

WILSON, BESTVOTE POLLER

Lincoln, Neb. July 3.—Three thousand people gave Bryan a homecoming reception here today. He made a forty-five minutes talk in which he said:

"After Taft had been nominated by me, I will not describe, and after Roosevelt's [sic] nomination, I had forced him to nominate as fair leader, I resolved that the only thing the Democrats to do was to state a platform so progressive at Baltimore, and to nominate a candidate so progressive that Mr. Roosevelt could find no excuse for running."

"Any other progressive than Wilson would have suited me just as well," declared Mr. Bryan. "But under the prevailing circumstance I do not believe that any other progressive could get so many votes as would he. But if anyone thinks that I wanted the nomination, let him explain why it is that I am happier in supporting Mr. Wilson for that place than in making the race myself."

"I do fight more earnestly under the endorsement of Mr. Wilson and Mr. Marshall than I could have done as a candidate. My fight has been made for principle, and I have won my fight. When I was a candidate they thought that I wanted to satisfy my ambition. They called me a demagogue when I started, but they do not call me that now."

"One argument still survives against me, that I wanted to write my name alongside that of others who had been residents of the country; but I was acting not for myself but for my country."

SEEK TO HAVE TAFT WITHDRAW

Officeholders Feel They Face Defeat In November—Compromise Candidate The Hope Of Promoters.

Washington, July 8.—A nationwide movement to petition President Taft to withdraw as the Republican presidential candidate is being backed by a large number of Republican officeholders, who feel that they face defeat in November unless the breach in the party can be healed.

These men include members of Congress, members of the State Legislatures which will elect Senators, State and county officeholders and party candidates. If the movement to petition Mr. Taft to withdraw succeeds in gaining any volume, it is said these same men in the interest of party harmony may ask Col. Roosevelt also to withdraw as a prospective candidate for an independent nomination and permit a compromise selection of some man agreeable to both factions of the party. It is the desire of the promoters of the scheme that a decision shall be reached before August 5, when the Roosevelt factions plan to hold a convention in Chicago.

MRS. JULIA CLARKSON GONE TO ETERNAL REST

Prominent And Beloved Woman Dies At Big Spring—Was A Great Sufferer Several Months—Will Be Missed By Family, Friends And Church.

FUNERAL HELD AT HOME.

Big Spring, July 8.—(Special)—Mrs. Julia Clarkson, a much beloved woman of Big Spring, died Friday morning at 2:10 o'clock, after an illness of several months. Her condition had been critical since February. She had been with her daughters, Mrs. Harry Kemper and Mrs. Moorman Hardaway, of Minot, N. D., since September, but saw that she was gradually growing weaker and they brought her back to her old home with son and friends to spend her few remaining days.

Mrs. Clarkson was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Richardson, of near Garrett. She has been a resident of Big Spring over twenty-nine years and had a wide circle of friends and relatives who are grieved over her death. She was the mother of B. S. Clarkson, of Big Spring, Mrs. Harry Kemper and Mrs. Moorman Hardaway, of Minot, N. D., and a half sister of Mesdames Mary Richardson, of Louisville; Kelly Wimp, of Owensboro; Hannah Hardin, of Holt, and James F. Woolfolk, of Brandenburg, and Gus Richardson, of Guston.

She had been a member of the Methodist church over forty years and was also a member of the Ladies Aid, of which she had been a member since it was first organized, seven years ago, and was the first of its members to be removed by death.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. E. King at the residence and the interment took place at the family burying ground. To the children, sisters and brother we extend sympathy.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET

FOR PRESIDENT
WOODROW WILSON
of New Jersey

THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

The contest to select a nominee for President by the Democrats came to an end at Baltimore last week in the selection of Woodrow Wilson for that distinguished honor, and his running mate, Governor Marshall, of Indiana. In our opinion, it is the best ticket the Democrats have put out for president and Vice-President in twenty-five years. From the time Woodrow Wilson's name was mentioned for this great office many months ago, he has easily and distinctly been the favorite among Democrats. It has been so in Kentucky, notwithstanding the apparent popularity of Champ Clark. Thousands of Democrats in Kentucky have been silently, but zealously advocating the claims of Wilson, from the very moment his name came before the people.

It is true that the delegates were instructed for Champ Clark, but this grew out of a sentiment, or a question of State pride, rather than his real fitness for the nomination. Mr. Wilson's friends seeing the drift of the convention made no effort to secure the vote of the State.

Thus Kentucky delegates voted for Mr. Clark, as long as his name was before the convention. But the result of the convention showed that the sentiment of the Democrats of the country was with the New Jersey Governor.

The News has never faltered in its support of Governor Wilson. From the time his name came before the people we have believed he would be their choice for President. Everything now points to Democratic success, and we believe Woodrow Wilson will be the next President. We urge the Democrats of this county to organize and carry the county for him this fall by a big majority.

GET ACQUAINTED WITH OUR BANKS.

Attention is called to the splendid showing of the statement of the Bank of Hardinsburg & Trust Company made June 29. It is of supreme importance to every man who has funds to invest, to notice the condition of this bank. Especially people of moderate means and guardians of belongings to others should study it.

While mentioning this company we also call your constant attention to the ads of the Breckinridge Bank, The Farmers Bank and The First State Bank. Never fail to read what they have to say. They remind you and convince you that it pays best in the long run to be conservative and not take uncalled for chances on the safety of your investments in strange banks. You can get acquainted with the banks of our county through our columns. Watch every week what they have to say and they will advise you frankly and honestly about money matters.

The young men who got up the Breckinridge County Fair catalogue made a great mistake when they let the work go away from home, but the greatest mistake they have ever made in the history of the fair was leading the book off with a whiskey ad made as conspicuous as possible by being attached separately. May they live and learn as we older men have, that whiskey advertising is as bad as voting for saloons. The ad reaches the men directly, tempts them and arouses their desire for the dangerous stuff.

The funeral of Miss Harriet Quimby, the aviator, was held at twilight in New York on the Fourth of July. Miss Quimby was dramatic critic of Leslie's Weekly. At the close of the service, the staff and office force of this magazine filed past the casket, each dropping a rose. The young woman was a martyr to the great science of human flight. Harriet Quimby was a vivacious, eager, striking good looking young woman which added to the interest of her career.

If you don't get your paper lay it to the post office department. They say to publishers send us a list of your unpaid subscriptions. There is extra postage on unpaid subscriptions. If you fail to pay it you are fined and lose your mailing privileges. This is pretty hard on the publisher as well as the subscriber who just wants a little time. We can't take any such risks with Uncle Sam so off they go.

Senator Joseph M. Dixon, of Montana, Theodore Roosevelt's Campaign Manager, has sent out a call to the people who are in sympathy with the National Progressive Movement to send delegates to a convention to meet in Chicago August 5. The call is signed by representatives from forty states. Leslie Coombs is the member from Kentucky.

Dynamiting the ground has been proven by Jess Weatherholt to be the best way for raising potatoes. He raised 30 bushels on ground 80x20 feet—and the potatoes are the best he has ever seen grown in this section. Ask Mr. Weatherholt to tell you the facts and results of his dynamiting work.

E. W. Smith, of Elites Run, says he has apples as well as Joe Smart, and proved it Saturday by bringing us a big sack of the fine transparent Early Harvest kind. We are enjoying them and appreciate his bringing them to us. Thanks to Mr. Smith.

"The Successful Railroad Man" is the title of an attractive leaflet just issued by the Traffic Department of the Henderson Route. Its keynote is courtesy, which the Company is anxious to have observed all along the road by the men in its employ.

Don't get too active about the post office. Let us go to work and get our man in first. There is really more in getting a good man in than in getting in yourself. It is the fellow with an office who carries the burdens.

We welcome the Louisville Evening Post into the Democratic ranks. We regard Mr. Knott as one of the best Democrats in the State. He is not always in line with the party bosses but is in line with the people.

Senator O'Gorman was at Seagirt Friday bearing an Olive Branch from Tammany to Gov. Wilson with the assurance that he would carry New York state by a hundred and fifty thousand over Taft.

Mr. Bryan had to cut out registering at a hotel and take a room without a telephone that he might have a little quietude for one night in Chicago. William J. ought to come down to Tar Springs.

More trouble in President Taft's cabinet. It is given out that General Wickersham's resignation will be asked for within the next few days. He hasn't been running things to suit Wall Street.

Congressman Ben Johnson is a member of the Notification Committee from Kentucky. He will go to Seagirt, N. J. on August 7, to notify Woodrow Wilson of his nomination.

You had better get your license now before you go hunting. The license is $1 and the penalty not less than $50 nor more than $200.

We want to say to the prospective applicants for post offices that you need not apply if you are over sixty.

A big Wilson and Marshall ratification meeting is to be held in Lexington some time in August.

The only hope the Republicans have is that the Democrats always win in July and August.

If the Republicans want to be progressive, they should support Woodrow Wilson.

The sunshine always comes—just be patient no matter how hard and long it rains.

All eyes are on Seagirt. Oyster Bay is almost forgotten.

Mr. Wilson has already had an applicant for a post office.

MRS. NANCY NEWMAN

Dies At Her Home In Hancock County—Suffers Many Afflictions And Sorrows—Was Well Known Over The County.

Hawesville, Ky., July 6.—The funeral of Mrs. Nancy Newman, aged 87, took place from her home in the country Thursday afternoon and her remains were buried in the family burying ground of her step-father, Capt. John Sterrett, who was the first sheriff and one of the first representatives in the legislature.

She was an excellent good woman, a member of the Baptist church, patient and long suffering, and if one ever received reward in heaven because of the truth behind the quotation, "Whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth," she certainly did, for to her came more afflictions than come to most persons since the day of Job. One of her youngest children was scalded to death in a tanning vat, soon after another was burned to death on the home hearth, another son enlisted in the southern army and was murdered on the streets of a southern city. Three years ago another son was killed by a falling plank at Stanley, Ky. Another son was killed on the streets of Hawesville. A son-in-law was burned to death in a forest fire in this county near his home a few years ago, and his son lost his life in a steam boat disaster on the Mis-

Those old Daguerreotypes

of grandfather, grandmother, and Aunt Mary, and then the quaint pictures of father and mother taken just after the war—money couldn't buy them from you.

Are you forgetful of the fact that future generations would cherish just such pictures of you?

C. G. BRABANDT
PHOTOGRAPHER

The interest continues to grow and the revival spirit is increasing in power. Bro. Lewis preached two strong sermons Sunday. In the morning his subject was, "The Spirit Against the Holy Ghost." At the morning service the interest was so deep that some were in tears and the audible shout of praise was heard. At night the building was crowded to its utmost seating capacity, and a holy hush pervaded the congregation as Bro. Lewis spoke on the unpardonable sin. At the close of the service several came forward for prayer and one strong man was converted.

There have been thirty additions to the church to date and many are interested. The meeting has been in progress 10 weeks, but the interest is so manifest that Bro. Lewis and the Pastor feel that the meeting should continue longer. It has been several years since a big reaching revival has been experienced here, not perhaps since Bro. Pendleton Jones was here during Bro. Vines' pastorate. The meeting now in progress gives promise of resulting in a general and far-reaching revival. There is a field here of great promise and of limitless opportunity for a great meeting.

Over fifty per cent of the population of Cloverport are not connected with the four religious organizations that maintain services and a great part of these are unsaved. Oh, that God's people were alive to their opportunities and felt more keenly a sense of their responsibility. Oh, that God's people had eyes to see that they might look upon the field white unto the harvest.

"Enlarge the place of thy tent, stretch forth the curtains of thy habitations, spare not, lengthen thy cords, and strengthen thy stakes; for thou shalt break forth on the right hand and on the left. For the Lord hath called thee as a woman forsaken and grieved in spirit, and a wife of youth, when thou wast refused, saith the Lord. For a small moment I have forsaken thee; but with great mercies will I gather thee. In a little wrath I hid my face from thee for a moment; but with everlasting kindness will I have mercy on thee, saith the Lord thy Redeemer."

WHITE HOUSE

Taft children will leave their summer home in a few days to be present at the notification ceremony.

The president has arranged a reception for July 26th to the subcommittee which is to meet to go over the situation and which will hear his suggestions for a chairman of the national committee. Several hundred invitations have been sent out. Many of the prominent Republicans of the country will be present.

The president has not changed his mind as to a chairman of the national committee, and it is said that his secretary, C. D. Hille, will probably be selected.

Examine the jaw or molar teeth of your horses and mules. Note the sharp, long and uneven grinding surface and this will readily explain the unthriftness of such animals.

Have the surface of the teeth made to an even bearing so the food can be thoroughly masticated and put in a proper condition for digestion. Note the change in the animal's condition in general and you will be convinced of the great necessity of this much neglected duty.

No money will give larger returns than that spent in keeping your horses' teeth in the proper condition.

HOW WILSON WON

a vote of 579 for Parker to 510 for Bryan.

The defeat of Colonel Bryan for the temporary chairmanship was a momentous event for the Democratic party, and the leaders and the rank and file of the party know it when it occurred. It was no longer a contest between candidates. It was war to the bitter end between Mr. Bryan and Mr. Murphy. Both had accepted the gage of battle, and there would be no compromise.

The change in the party alignment brought many surprises to the layman, among them the swinging of Theodore A. Bell of California, temporary chairman of the Denver convention of four years ago to the Murphy forces. Mr. Bell led the opposition to Bryan, and did not hesitate in demanding that the Nebraskan, to whom the Democracy had given three opportunities, now step aside and permit other leaders to shape the course of the party.

After the vote ex-Governor Patterson of Ohio expressed the feelings of many of the old leaders who had that day voted against Bryan, when he said:

"The defeat of Mr. Bryan, necessary though it was, was an occasion for tears rather than cheers. He has been and is a great man, but he has had his opportunity, and must now step aside."

That Tuesday night following the defeat of Mr. Bryan will ever remain a memorable one in Democratic history. The great question of that night was: "Is it to be a bolt?"

Among the leaders for the various candidates, the Clark forces instantly realized that if the speaker was to win he must do so in spite of Mr. Bryan's opposition. The Wilson leaders knew they would have Bryan's support, but would it suffice? Leaders of other candidates were wondering what form the alignment would take when the deadlock between Clark and Wilson should be broken.

Mr. Bryan was named as a member of the committee on resolutions, but refused the chairmanship of the committee. The reason for his refusal was explained on Thursday night, when, after the permanent organization had been completed and Ollie James of Kentucky had delivered his address as permanent chairman, Mr. Bryan stepped to the front of the speaker's platform and asked unanimous consent for the presentation of a resolution. But the convention was not willing to take Mr. Bryan on faith, and cries of "No! No!" "Read it! Read the resolution!" arose from all parts of the great hall.

Mr. Bryan, raising his voice so that it filled the hall, and could be heard despite the uproar, read:

"Resolved, That we hereby declare ourselves against the nomination of any candidate representing or under the domination of J. Pierpont Morgan, Thomas F. Ryan, August Belmont or any other member of the favored or privilege seeking class. Also that we ask any delegate representing such an interest be requested to withdraw."

It is impossible for words to express the uproar and tumult of the moment. Cheers, groans, catcalls, hisses were mingled in one deafening roar.

Mr. Bryan had again put the opposition on the defensive.

"Mr. Chairman! Mr. Chairman!" came the demands for recognition from all portions of the hall, and Congressman Brice of Virginia was recognized and invited to the speaker's stand.

When a semblance of order had been restored, and before Mr. Brice had had an opportunity to speak, Mr. Bryan announced that if New York and Virginia would take a poll of their delegations, and if a majority of the delegations of each state voted in

For Women Who Care

Of course you mean antiseptic in your family and in the care of your own person, and you want the best.

Instead of what you have been using such as liquid or tablet antiseptics or peroxide, won't you please try Paxtine, a concentrated antiseptic powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

Paxtine is more economical, more cleansing, more germicidal and more healing than anything you ever used.

Paxtine
ANTISEPTIC

In the toilet—to cleanse and whiten the teeth, remove tartar and prevent decay. To disinfect the mouth, destroy disease germs, and purify the breath. To keep artificial teeth and bridgework clean and odorless. To remove nicotine from the teeth and purify the breath after smoking. To eradicate perspiration odors by sponge bathing.

As a medicinal agent for local treatment of feminine ills where pelvic catarrh, induration and ulceration exist, nothing equals hot pouches of Paxtine. For ten years the Lydia E. Plankham Med. Co. has been regularly advising their patients to use it because of its extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal power. For this purpose alone Paxtine is worth its weight in gold. Also for nasal catarrh, sore throat, inflamed eyes, cuts and wounds. All druggists, 25 and 50 cents a box.

avor of Belmont and Ryan, he would withdraw the last paragraph of his resolution.

"No! No!" came the cries from the delegations of the two states.

Raising his voice so as to be heard above the uproar, Mr. Bryan stated that two delegates from Virginia had asked that such part of the last paragraph as applied to Virginia be withdrawn, and he would do so, and if one delegate from New York would make the same request for that state, he would withdraw the last paragraph entirely.

Again came the cries of "No! No!" accompanied by groans and hisses.

The convention at that moment was against Mr. Bryan and his resolution as originally read would have been voted down, had the opportunity been offered.

Brice succeeded in getting attention and in the name of the Virginia delegation offered defiance to the Committee, stating that no member of the the Virginia delegation had asked for the withdrawal of any part of the resolution; that Virginia was entirely competent to handle its internal affairs, and would recognize no right of Mr. Bryan to meddle with her.

New York's policy of silence, a policy which was maintained throughout the convention, remained unbroken throughout the tumult, which lasted for an hour.

Before the vote which had been asked for on the suspension of the rules could be taken Mr. Bryan withdrew the last paragraph of his resolution, and the resolution was then passed practically unanimously.

The dramatic incident, probably the most dramatic that has ever occurred in a national political convention, had served to widen the breach between the Bryan and Murphy forces, if that were possible.

From the first to the ninth ballot

New York voted "90 for Harmon," and Nebraska voted almost solidly for Clark, as instructed by the state convention, Mr. Bryan, as a Nebraska delegate-at-large, following the instructions up to and including the fourteenth ballot. On the tenth ballot New York switched to "90 for Clark," causing a Clark demonstration. The balloting continued without serious interruption until Nebraska was called on the fifteenth, when Mr. Bryan arose from his seat on the floor and asked permission to explain a change in his vote.

"No! No!" came the cries, and Congressman Sulzer of New York, who was presiding, ruled the Nebraskan out of order, and instructed him to vote without an explanation.

"Despite my instructions, I will not vote for Clark so long as New York votes for him," yelled Mr. Bryan, and pandemonium was again loose in the great convention.

The unanimous consent which Mr. Bryan had asked was finally granted at the request of Senator Stone of Missouri.

From the platform Mr. Bryan read a typewritten statement, saying he did so for the reason that he did not want

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM SUMMARIZED

Following is a summary of the more important planks in the platform adopted by the Democratic national convention:

Declares for a tariff for revenue only; denounces the high Republican tariff as the principal cause of the unequal distribution of wealth. Favors immediate downward revision of present duties, especially upon necessities of life. Also favors gradual reduction so as not to interfere with or destroy legitimate industries.

Takes issue with the Republican platform as to the high cost of living, contending it is largely due to high tariff laws.

Favors vigorous enforcement of the criminal features of the anti-trust law. Demands such additional legislation as may be necessary to crush private monopoly.

Declares for presidential preference primaries.

Pledges party to enactment of law prohibiting campaign contributions by corporations and unreasonable campaign contributions by individuals.

Favors single presidential term and making president ineligible to re-election.

Favors efficient supervision and rate regulation of railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines and a valuation of these companies by the Interstate commerce commission.

In connection with a demand for such a revision of the banking laws as will give temporary relief in case of financial distress there is a denunciation of the Aldrich bill prepared by the monetary commission.

Recommends investigation of agricultural credit societies in Europe to ascertain whether a system of rural credits may be devised suitable to conditions in the United States.

Pledges party to enactment of legislation to prevent devastation of lower Mississippi valley by floods.

Favors national aid regarding post roads.

Repeats party's declaration of the platform of 1908 as to rights of labor and pledges the party to an employees' compensation law.

Declares the unnecessary withdrawal of public lands tends to retard development and bring re-proach upon policy of conservation; declares for immediate action to make available Alaskan coal lands.

Favors encouragement of agriculture and legislation to suppress gambling in agricultural products.

Believes in fostering growth of a merchant marine.

Reaffirms previous declarations regarding pure food and public health.

Favors reorganization of the civil service.

Recommends law reform legislation.

Reaffirms position against "policy of imperialism and colonial exploitation" in Philippines.

Demands for Alaska full enjoyment of rights and privileges of territorial form of government.

Favors parcels post and extension of rural delivery.

to be inquired. It was a scathing arraignment of Murphy and the interests Bryan claims Murphy represents, and another effort to read Tammany out of the Democratic party. He referred to his resolution which the convention had passed on Thursday night, and said no candidate the party might nominate with the assistance of the New York delegation voting as a unit under the direction of Murphy would be in position to carry out the promises of that resolution.

The reading of his statement was interrupted time after time before it was completed, and when completed a hundred or more delegates were on the floor clamoring for recognition. "Will you support the nominee of this convention?" yelled one delegate. "I do not expect to bolt," purred Mr. Bryan.

Another succeeded in asking a long hypothetical question, which Bryan refused to answer unless it were made more explicit.

Another asked whether he considered a refusal to support a candidate receiving Murphy's support the same as a refusal to support for president a man nominated with Murphy's support.

"Does not the law make a difference?" replied Mr. Bryan, "between the lawyer who defends a criminal after the crime has been committed, and the man who assists in the commission of crime?"

Mr. Bryan then announced his vote for Woodrow Wilson and retired to his seat in the Nebraska delegation; and he continued to cast his vote for Wilson throughout the night.

Numerous efforts to break both the unit rule as applied to instructed delegations and the two-thirds rule as applied to the nomination were made previous to the Saturday night adjournment. The first of these applied to Ohio and was successful, the move adding ten votes to the Wilson strength. But the resolution that applied to Ohio did not cover other states, and the enforcing of the rule led to wrangles on every ballot.

At the close of the twenty-fifth ballot late Saturday night Senator Stone of Missouri asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a motion providing that beginning with the twenty-eighth ballot the lowest man should drop out of the race, and on the final ballot the candidate receiving the majority of the votes cast should be the party nominee. The Texas delegation offered immediate objection, and the long, tedious calling of the roll of states continued.

With Monday came two important and interesting features. One was the apparent cracking of the deadlock in favor of Wilson. Despite the desperate endeavors of the Clark forces, the governor's vote increased steadily on every ballot until, on the thirty-ninth, it stood at 501½. After the fortieth ballot the Wilson vote fell off to 494, his net gain over the first ballot being 87½. When Wilson was at the high water mark on Monday, Clark had slumped to 422 but went up again to 430 before adjournment. At this time it seemed that the Illinois delegation held the key to the situation.

The other big event of the day was the exorcism of Bryan by John H. Stanchfield of New York. This was Murphy's first return blow, and it was a hard one. Praising the New York delegation, Stanchfield said:

"It is by common consent the most representative delegation that ever came to a national convention from New York. If these be the 'puppets of wax' that Mr. Bryan refers to, we say to that money-grabbing, office-seeking, publicity-hunting marplot of Nebraska—"

The Clark and Wilson forces struggled gallantly to make the greater showing for their respective candidates. While Clark was showing the greater voting strength, the lung power of the thousands of college boys in the Wilson following gave to him an advantage so far as continued effort at noise-making was concerned.

The terrific din of Thursday night which was started by the Clark hosts when Senator Reed named the speaker for the Democratic nomination continued unabated for one and a quarter hours, and in it there seemed to be employed every noise-making implement ever invented.

Great as was the Clark demonstration, however, it did not compare in noise with that led by the Princeton boys when Judge Westcott named the New Jersey executive. For more than one and a half hours the din continued, the lusty youngsters seeming to glory in their ability to keep it up.

Of all of the demonstrations of Thursday night the most amusing was that started by a man in the press stand for Governor Baldwin, when the name of the Connecticut executive was entered in the race for the nomination. Realizing that the four delegates from Connecticut could not successfully compete with the stronger following of the other candidates, the men in the press stand volunteered a noisy assistance which they continued for more than twenty minutes and which subsided only when the chair threatened to clear the press stand if the reporters did not stop.

The many star writers in the press stand, men whose reputations for genius are world-wide, led the Baldwin demonstration, and introduced into it all the elements of a first-class vaudeville show or a Gridiron club dinner. It was the one really spontaneous and amusing demonstration of the long week.

"Alfalfa Bill" Murry, a Wilson delegate from Oklahoma, was the acknowledged leader of the Wilson "demonstrators" among the delegations. Any time "Alfalfa Bill" wanted to start something he would raise his tousled head, wave his long arms at the north gallery where a group of Princeton boys had seats, and let out a wild west yell. It never failed to produce results. It was such a move that started the demonstration on Saturday night when on the twenty-fourth ballot the New Jersey executive passed the four hundred mark.

Of the many visitors to the convention none created more interest than Mrs. William H. Taft, when on Thursday afternoon and evening she occupied a seat in the box immediately back of the speaker's stand. She was the guest of Mrs. Norman H. Stanchfield.

Mrs. Taft entered the convention hall just before Temporary Chairman Parker surrendered the gavel to Permanent Chairman James. The crowd watched the first lady of the land with eager interest as she listened to the denunciation of her distinguished husband and the arraignment of his administration contained in the speech of the permanent chairman. But if they expected any evidences of displeasure on the part of Mrs. Taft they were disappointed, for she only smiled at each telling point, and at the conclusion of the address applauded vigorously. She did not applaud, or even smile, when Mr. James turned his attention from President Taft to Colonel Roosevelt and included the latter in his arraignment and among those to whom the Democratic party was unalterably opposed.

As Mrs. Taft entered the box with Mrs. Mack, gray-haired southerner near enough to distinguish her started an ovation for her. When pleasantly chided for his actions by a younger acquaintance he replied:

"The first lady of this land, or any lady, is entitled to the courtesy of every gentleman, and I would have you know, sir, that the Democrats of the South are gentlemen."

Mr. Bryan and his followers made political capital from the appearance in the convention of Ryan and Belmont. They acted as a red rag to a bull on the Bryan cohorts. Belmont occupied a conspicuous place in the first row in the box immediately back of the speaker, while Ryan, though occupying a seat with the Virginia delegation, was on the speaker's stand a number of times. Ryan wore a plain business suit, and so far as clothing was concerned could not have been distinguished from any of the other delegates. Belmont attended most of the evening sessions dressed in evening clothes, the broad expanse of his white shirt front making him easily distinguishable from others around him.

Bryan, when not on the stand, occupied a seat with the Nebraska delegation immediately in front of the speaker and facing Belmont. During the sessions as the delegates would flock around the Nebraskan seeking his advice or counsel, or upbraiding him for his opposition, he would point his finger at Belmont to emphasize his points, and his action would nearly always result in an uproar.

On Thursday night, at the close of Senator Reed's speech naming Clark, the speaker's beautiful daughter stepped onto a chair in the gallery, and with a big American flag wrapped around her, and another in each hand, the cheering for her father. She was the only woman who figured conspicuously in the demonstrations.

Baltimore is by no means a convention city. It is a city of homes with limited hotel accommodations, which made the housing of the big crowd a hard problem to solve. This shortage of hotel accommodations was met by appealing to the people of the city to open their homes to the visitors. The committee in charge established a room-renting agency where those willing to accommodate the Democratic guests could list their rooms. The following is a sample of what was offered:

"I should like you to rent one of my rooms for me," said an amiable-looking elderly lady in weeds. "It is a large room and it is furnished with antique mahogany furniture. The bureau belonged to my great grandmother. It is a Sheraton, and you know how few Sheraton bureaus there are left in this country. If you could just buy it now, Chamberlain's Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is most certain to be needed before summer is over. Buy it now and prepared for such an emergency."

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Train Butcher.

Mallory was dragging out a miserable existence with a companion who was neither maid, wife, nor widow and to whom he was neither bachelor, bachelorette, nor relief.

They were suffering brain-fag from their one topic of conversation, and heart-fag from rapture deferred. Mallory had pretended to take a nap and Mallory had pretended that he would leave her for her own sake. Their contradictory chasings were beginning to gall.

Mallory sat in the smoking room, and threw aside a half-finished cigar. Life was indeed nauseous when tobacco turned rank on his lips. He watched without interest the stupendous scenery whirling past the train; granite ravines, infernal grotesques of architecture and diablerie, the Giant's Teapot, the Devil's Slide, the Pulpit Rock, the Hanging Rock, splashes of mineral color, as if titanic paint pots had been spilled or flung against the cliffs, sudden bushes of green pine-worlds, dreary graveyards of sand and sagebrush, mountain streams in frothing panics.

His faded soul could not respond to any of these thrills, the dime-novels and melodramatic third-acts of nature. But with the arrival of a trainboy, who had got on at Evanston with a batch of Salt Lake City newspapers, he woke a little.

The other men came trooping round, like sheep at a herd-boy's whistle or chickens when a pan of grain is brought into the yard. The train "butcher" had a nasal sing-song, but his strain might have been the "Red Piper's tune emptying Hamelin of its grown-ups. The charms of flirtation, matrimonial bliss and feminine beauty were forgotten, and the males flocked to the delights of stock-market reports, political or racing or dramatic or sporting or criminal news. Even Ashton hraved the eyes of his fellow men for the luxury of burying his nose in a fresh paper.

"Papers, gents? Yes? No?" the train butcher chanted. "Salt Lake papers, Ogden papers, all the latest papers, comic papers, magazines, periodicals."

"Here, boy," said Ashton, snapping his fingers, "what's the latest New York paper?"

"Last Sat'day's."

"Six days old? I read that before I left New York. Well, give me that Salt Lake paper. It has yesterday's stock market, I suppose."

"Yes, sir." He passed over the sheet and made change, without saying his monody: "Papers, gents. Yes? No? Salt Lake pa—"

"Whash tatesh from Chicago?" said Wellington.

"Monday's."

"I read that before—that breakfast began," laughed Little Jimmie. "Well, give me Salt Lake Ilazoo. It has baseball news, I spose."

"Yes, sir," the butcher answered, and his tone grew reverent as he said: "The Giants won. Mr. Mattyson was pitching. Papers, gents, all the latest papers, magazines, periodicals."

Wedgewood extended a languid hand: "What's the latest issue of the London Times?"

"Never heard of it."

Wedgewood almost fainted, and returned to his Baedeker of the United States.

Dr. Tempio summoned the lad: "I don't suppose you have the Ypsilanti gile?"

The butcher regarded him with pity, and sniffed: "I carry newspapers, not poultry."

"Well, give me no—the—" he saw a pink weekly of rather picturesquesque appearance, and the adventure attracted him. "I'll take this—also the Outlook." He folded the pink within the green, and entered into a new and startling world—a sort of journalistic slumming tour.

"Give me any old thing," said Mallory, and flung open an Ogden journal till he found the sporting page, where his eyes brightened. "By jove, a ten-inning game! Mathewson in the box!"

"He is most intellectual pitch—he's the world," said Little Jimmie, when everybody disappeared before paper ramparts, while the butcher fidgeted to explain to the porter the details of the great event.

about this time, Marjorie, tired of idleness at slumber, strolled into Al's observation car, gazing into the room, where she saw nothing.

Newspapers. Then Mrs. Wellington saw her, and smiled: "Come in and make yourself at home."

"Anks," said Marjorie, bashfully, as looking for my—my—" husband?"

"My dog."

"How low is he this morning?"

"My dog?"

"Our husband."

"He's as well as could be ex—" here did you get that love of a waist?" Mrs. Wellington laughed. "Mrs. Temple lent it to me. Isn't it sweet?"

"Exquisite! The latest Ypsilanti mode."

Marjorie, suffering almost more acutely from being badly frocked than from being duped in her matrimonial hopes, threw herself on Mrs. Wellington's mercy.

"I'm so unhappy in this. Couldn't you lend me or sell me something a little smarter?"

"I'd love to, my dear," said Mrs. Wellington, "but I left home on short notice myself. I shall need all my divorce ironseau in Reno. Otherwise—I—but here's your husband. You two ought to have some place to go. I'll leave you this whole room."

Ami she swept out, nodding to Mallory, who had divined Marjorie's presence, and felt the need of being near her, though he also felt the need of finishing the story of the great ball game. Illustration, he felt that he was conferring sufficient courtesy in throwing a casual smile across the top of the paper.

Mallory studied his motley garb, and her own, and groaned:

"We're a sweet looking pair, aren't we?"

"Mr. and Miss Fit," said Mallory, from behind the paper.

"Oh, Harry, has your love grown cold?" she pleaded.

"Marjorie, how can you think such a thing?" still from behind the paper.

"Well, Mrs. Wellington said we ought to have some place to go, and she went away and left us, and—here you stand—and—"

This pierced even the baseball news, and he threw his arms around her with glow of devotion.

She snuggled closer, and cooed: "Aren't we having a nice long engagement? We've traveled a million miles, and the preacher isn't in sight yet. What have you been reading—wedding announcements?"

"No—I was reading about the most wonderful exhibition. Mattie was in the box—and in perfect form."

"Mattie?" Marjorie gasped uneasily.

"Mattie!" he raved, "and in perfect form."

And now the hidden serpent of jealousy, which promised to enliven their future, lifted its head for the first time, and Mallory caught his first glimpse of an unsuspected member of their household. Marjorie demanded with an ominous chill:

"And who's Mattie? Some former sweetheart of yours?"

"My dear," laughed Mallory.

But Marjorie was up and away, with apt temerity: "So Mattie was in the box, was she? What is it to you, where she sits? You dare to read about her and rave over her perfect form, while you neglect your wife—or you—oh, what am I, anyway?"

Mallory stared at her in amazement. He was beginning to learn what ignorant heathen women are concerning so many of the gods and demi-gods of mankind. Then, with a tenderness he might not always show, he threw the paper down and took her in his arms: "You poor child. Mattie is a man—pitcher—and you're the only woman I ever loved—and you are liable to be my wife any minute."

The explanation was sufficient, and she crawled into the shelter of his arm with little noises that served for apology, forgiveness and reconciliation. Then he made the mistake of mentioning the sickening topic of deferred hope:

"A minister's sure to get on at the next stop—or the next."

Marjorie's nerves were frayed by too much enduring, and it took only a word to set them jangling: "If you say minister to me again, I'll scream." Then she tried to control herself with a polite: "Where is the next stop?"

"Ogden."

"Where's that? On the map?"

"Well, it's in Utah."

"Utah!" she groaned. "They marry by wholesale there, and we can't even get a sample."

Do You Get Up

With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that uncomfortable necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

"I'm here to see you," said Little Jimmie, when everybody disappeared before paper ramparts, while the butcher fidgeted to explain to the porter the details of the great event.

Homes Wanted For Little Children.

A recent advertisement in the county papers succeeded in finding homes for a large number of children and a great many applications are coming in now for the older children that we cannot fill.

We have 60 children under 8 years of age; we have 16 boy babies, 8 months and younger, splendid little fellows, any one of whom you might expect some day to be President of the United States, and we have the sweetest and prettiest lot of boys and girls from 2 to 8 years to be found anywhere.

These children need homes; especially do they need the pure country air and good food for the summer months. Won't you take an interest in these children and allow us to place one of them in your home, on trial at least? It is very hard to have these children cramped up in an institution during the summer months.

We trust our appeal will result in a large number of applications coming in for the little babies, as well as the boys and girls from 2 to 8 years of age.

Thanking you in advance, I remain, Yours very respectfully,

Geo. L. Sehon.
State Supt. of Kentucky Children's Home Society.

All Churches and Church Societies Should Have a Bank Account.

If you are treasurer of your Church, Missionary Society, Epworth League, Baptist Young People's Union, Sunday School or Christian Endeavor, open an account in our bank. Pay out the church money by checks, and every member can look and see where the church money has gone, whether for pastor's salary, missions or church expenses. Everything in black and white is the most satisfactory way even in church matters where honesty and veracity is the only method.

We invite the patronage of every church and will render to Catholics and Protestants the same careful service and attention that is given to the merchants and all commercial patrons.

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS GRANTED

On Behalf Of J. G. Cox, Charged With The Murder Of Daniel Dowell, Near Brandenburg, Kentucky.

Hardinsburg, July 8. (Special)—On Tuesday, the second of July, 1912 at Brandenburg, at examining trial of J. G. Cox, charged with the murder of Daniel Dowell on the 27th day of June, 1912, near Brandenburg, bail was denied Cox. Application was made to Judge Chelf at Louisville on the sixth, inst., for a writ of habeas corpus, which was granted. This means that Judge Chelf will hear testimony in order to determine whether Cox is entitled to bail, and the hearing is set for the 12th, inst., at Elizabethtown, Ky.

Public sentiment was rampant against Cox, but the probabilities are, when the truth of the killing and the reason therefor are known, that there will be a decided shifting of feeling on the part of the public. Claude Mercer of this bar is representing Mr. Cox.

The Marlin Model 20 REPEATING RIFLE

You can buy no better gun for target work and all small game up to 200 yards.

The solid top is protection from defective cartridges—prevents powder and gases from being blown back. The side ejection never lets ejected shells spoil your load and allows quick, accurate repeat shots. With simple take-down construction, removable action parts, least parts of any .22—the quickest and easiest clean. A great vacation rifle. Ask any gun dealer.

The Marlin Firearms Co.

Leaves Seven Children

Mrs. Ella Castle Miller, wife of Allen Miller, died July 3 of tuberculosis. She was forty-two years of age, and besides her husband she leaves seven children. Mrs. Miller was sprinkled Sunday night before her death by the Rev. Mr. Lewis, pastor of the Methodist church. She lived and died with a sweet Christian faith. The burial took place in Taul's grave-yard.

The Irvington Barbecue

The Irvington Improvement League was not kept in the hole financially on the Fourth, despite of the heavy rain the night before and that morning. Enough money was made to meet expenses with a surplus amount. As the young ladies in the contest did not accept the cash prizes, the League is most grateful to them and was thus enabled to swim ashore.
